Consolidation of the State-Owned Enterprises in China: A Missed Opportunity for the EU Merger Control?
中国国有企业的兼并：欧盟兼并管制错失良机？

Alexandr SVETLICINII
Associate Professor of Law at the University of Macau

Lecture Description
Mergers of China's state-owned enterprises (SOEs) aimed at increasing their competitiveness and their presence on global markets raised a number of challenging questions concerning their appraisal under merger control regimes worldwide. The review of the Commission's merger control practice reveals numerous instances where it presumed the existence of a 'single economic unit' comprising several Chinese SOEs when assessing competitive effects of Chinese SOEs' acquisitions in Europe. The assertion of merger control jurisdiction over a Chinese SOE-to-SOE merger would require the Commission to treat these SOEs as autonomous economic entities, which will have an impact on future assessments of Chinese SOEs' acquisitions of European companies.
